Parents have an important job in recognizing when a child is struggling and knowing how to find help. Misunderstood children. Brody and Mills [1997] argue that this population of students "could be considered the most misunderstood of all exceptionalities". In each situation, the 2e student's strengths help to compensate for deficits; the deficits, on the other hand, make the child's strengths less apparent although as yet there is no empirical research to confirm this theory. - The Misunderstood Child A Guide For Parents Of Children With Learning Disabilities
